

Spring 2023

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

to host a Transnational Training
for Trainers on Climate Justice,
Europe or Participation

Deadline for applications

8 FEBRUARY 2023, 23:59 CET

We are happy to announce our third call for applications to host a transnational T4T in Understanding Europe open for trainers from all project countries!

Understanding Europe is an ever-growing Network of young people delivering amazing educational work in 14 different European countries. Since last year, trainers can also experience the networks transnational character during our Transnational Training for Trainers – a series of events where Trainers, Coordinators and Peer Educators from all over Europe can come together and connect! These training events are meant to be a space for learning and exchange on one of our focus topics per event. The focus topics in the Understanding Europe Network are Social Justice, Climate Justice, Participation, Europe and the Media. As hosts of the upcoming Transnational Training for Trainers in Spring 2023, you can choose the topic of your TT4T out of the focus topics Climate Justice, Europe and Participation.*

*The network currently has five focus topics. „Media“ as a topic is not funded by the Alfred-Herrhausen Gesellschaft and “Social Justice” was the topic of the last TT4T in October 2022. Therefore, you can now choose one out of three focus topics.

Details on the transnational T4T:

- The T4T should be held in the second half of April 2023
- The T4T should last approx. 2.5 days (ideally from Friday noon – Sunday evening).
- Approximately 20 Trainers and Peer Educators from all over Europe should be given the chance to participate in the T4T.
- Within the broader focus topic you have chosen, you set a specific focus for the event and design programme elements: for instance a local activity with relevance to the topic, a suggestion for participatory formats concerning relevant political issues etc.
- You will be supported by the project managers of Understanding Europe with programme-development, contact to the Fellows and/or Peer Educators who will support the programme, call for participants etc., depending on your wishes and needs.
- You will get a budget of 10.000 EUR to finance the event (covering travel costs for participants, fees for speakers, accommodation-costs etc.). You are expected to fundraise approx. 2000 Euro locally to add to the budget (could also be free seminar rooms or other in-kind fundraising etc)
- You will be asked to follow the sustainability-guidelines and the hygiene concept applicable to all events of Understanding Europe/the Schwarzkopf Foundation

How to apply:

- The deadline to apply is Wednesday the 8th of February
- You can apply by filling out the following form, explaining why you want to host the T4T, outlining your human resources and stating ideas for programme elements you would like to include.
- Selection criteria are: your motivation, your content idea, a sufficiently large organising team, local networking/fundraising and connections with supportive organisations.
- The UE team at the Schwarzkopf Foundation and a project member of the Alfred Herrhausen Gesellschaft, the funder of this training, will select one UE project team to organize the TT4T.
